Overview

The MSc Global Business Management consists of an intensive, taught semester of 6 months at the BHMS campus in Lucerne, Switzerland, and a second semester during which time students will undertake their research project/dissertation. During this second semester, students may choose to complete a hospitality-related internship in Switzerland or abroad and add invaluable experience to their profile. The award is validated by the Robert Gordon University, UK, which is expected around June 2018. Students will thus learn within a Swiss environment, which maintains its world-class reputation in the service and hospitality sectors, and receive a final award from one of the UK's top-rated Universities with whom BHMS has a long-standing relationship of over 10 years.

BHMS is a member of the Bénédict Education Group of schools, founded in 1928, whose mission is to provide adult education for people with a desire to succeed. Bénédict School is one of Switzerland's largest private education organizations and is teaching each year more than 15,000 full and part time students.

Students learn from a dedicated faculty, who in addition to their academic credentials, bring know-how and experience in the hospitality and business fields. This ensures that what is learnt in class is contemporary and can be applied in a daily business environment in real world situations.

Aim of the Program

The MSc Global Business Management develops students' theoretical and operational knowledge of current themes and developments in the international business world. This will allow graduates to either initiate or enhance a career in a wide range of industries. Through a variety of taught modules and internship placement students are educated to:

- use initiative and take responsibility
- solve problems in creative and innovative ways
- make decisions in challenging situations
- continue to learn independently and to develop professionally
- communicate effectively, with colleagues and a wider audience, in a variety of media.

The program offers students a robust academic education, and, if choosing to undertake a hospitality internship in Switzerland, vocational core competency and transferable skills which are invaluable in any future career path. This carries considerable value and prestige with employers worldwide.

Students learn food service systems, an extensive range of business management applications, foreign languages and leadership skills to name a few of the academic disciplines. Throughout the program, Swiss virtues, such as discipline, punctuality, ethics and hygiene are encouraged as they are highly valued throughout the world and count as much as academic and practical skills in ensuring a successful career.

Paid Internship in Switzerland or Abroad

An internship is a valuable element of the study program at BHMS, particularly for those with limited prior exposure to a workplace. It provides an opportunity to gain paid work-experience during the early stages of a career or in support of a career change. This will prove invaluable when applying for a first supervisory or management position. Generally, the first internship position will be in a junior position, where students can practice the skills that they learned in their academic studies. BHMS benefits from an excellent relationship with an extensive network of employers, mainly in the hospitality and tourism fields. Students will therefore normally complete their training in the hospitality sector in service, housekeeping, or front office departments, according to their interests and talent. Students with significant prior hospitality experience and language ability may be able to assume more responsibility and guest contact roles.

The hospitality internship salary in Switzerland, negotiated between the employers' association and the Employee Union, is presently set at minimum CHF 2'168 per month gross. From this salary, students have to pay for room, board, and taxes. The average net income per month varies from CHF 1'000 to 1'400. Salaries for internships completed overseas vary from country to country and the position available.
